

Nadira Nagy

High School Head | Guidance | Entrepreneurship

Nadira Nagy is a committed educator, wife, and mother of three, living with her husband of 18 years, Alan. With a successful career spanning over a decade in corporate America, Nadira initially specialized in consumer banking and later in treasury management. However, a transformative encounter in 2017 prompted a pivotal shift in her life's direction, leading her to pursue a higher calling to serve God.

In the years that followed, Nadira served with an international ministry for four years while also teaching part-time. In 2021, she made the transition to full-time education, armed with a Master's degree in Ministry and Biblical Studies. Nadira's passion for her students is evident in her commitment to seeing them as uniquely created individuals. She works tirelessly to support their academic and spiritual growth, fostering an environment where each student can thrive both personally and academically.
