

Gage Long

6th & 7th History | Technology Educator

Gage Long is an innovative and passionate educator dedicated to making learning a dynamic and engaging experience. Currently teaching 6th and 7th grade History and Technology, he fosters a classroom environment where creativity, collaboration, and fun are at the core of every lesson.

With an Associate's Degree in Fine Arts from Fayetteville Technical Community College, Gage's background is diverse, including roles as a Children's Ministry Director at Manteo First Assembly and a Children's Theater teacher at Gilbert Theater. His unique teaching style integrates game-based learning, which allows students to deeply engage with the material while forming meaningful connections with their peers. This approach not only promotes long-term comprehension but also encourages teamwork and problem-solving skills.

Outside of the classroom, Gage is an avid collector of books and board games, always exploring new ways to challenge his thinking and creativity. He believes in the power of play and storytelling to build strong community bonds, a philosophy he passionately brings to his students, helping them develop a sense of identity and a vision for the future. Gage is committed to inspiring life-long learners who understand the importance of both intellectual growth and the joy of play.
